

Did you Know

Under the law an adopted child stands in the same relation to his/her adoptive parents as any of his/her natural child or children

Once the adoption order is made, adoptive parents assume the rights and duties of the natural parents.

That adoptive parents have the same parental responsibility as the parent of a child born to the adoptive parents

The adoptive child ceases to be regarded as the child of the natural parent, and the natural parent ceases to have parental responsibility with respect to the child, except a natural parent, who remains as a parent jointly with the adoptive parent

A person whose consent is required ceases to have a right or obligation to consent, on any matter with respect to that child.

The court , before making an adoption order shall be satisfied that the order if made, will be in the best interest of the child
